

In conversation with...

Doug Betts

If you were not talking to me what would you be doing? I would either be out visiting a client or working on HR project work and giving email and telephone advice to Park City's HR clients.

If you had the power to pass any single law what would it be and why? As someone who advises on Employment Law on a daily basis, overall I would say I would like to see "common sense" laws where the government have considered the implications on employers prior to implementation. As for a single law, I would like to do more to regulate recruitment agencies to ensure that they provide a more open, up front, service for employers and job seekers alike to ensure they work with employers to get the best person for the job every time.

What was your proudest moment and why? Completing a sky dive from 11,000 feet whilst I was touring Australia. It was a huge achievement for me as I had a fear of heights.

What are you very good at? Playing the piano, having played since the age of five. I gained my grade 8 but prefer to play more pop/rock than classical.

What is the last film you saw? The Inbetweeners Movie

If you could plan a trip anywhere in the world for yourself and your partner, where would you like to go? I have always wanted to go along the west coast of America taking in Las Vegas, Los Angeles, the Grand Canyon and San Francisco. My girlfriend might take a bit of persuading though!

Doug's Preferred Hot Drink: "No hot drinks thanks; just water but I also have a weakness for a certain brand of milkshakes...!"